PREACHER'S MAGAZINE

Overview

As a resource to preachers in the Wesleyan-Holiness tradition, we are seeking fresh perspectives, global voices, and new approaches to faithfully breaking the Word of God before congregations. Pastors, faculty, and students are encouraged to help build this global resource by submitting their sermons, articles on preaching, reviews of books on preaching, and pod cast sermons. Our editors are teachers, committed to strengthening developing writers.

Lectionary, Topical, or Hard to Preach

We are seeking material from any of these three approaches to preaching. Mentoring/teaching articles or sermons, which serve as contextual examples.

Sermons

Sermons may be submitted in any language. If possible, please also submit them in English for a larger audience. Approved sermons will be published in the language(s) provided.

Articles

In addition to sermons, we are interested in articles related to the work of the pastor through a season of the Christian calendar. These articles can be on a wide range of related themes: what are you learning, thinking about, and sharing with your congregation through the season?

Podcasts

Podcasts are a great way to share a sermon, a lesson, or a workshop on preaching or on leadership. We welcome your submission in any language! We are especially interested in professors and teaching pastors presenting 10-15 minute teaching podcasts that could serve as useful resource for bi-vocational pastors or pastors without extensive resources. What have you learned in your research and experience that you could share with others?

Illustrative Material

How do you create illustrations, what are some of your favorite illustrations and what scriptures do they connect to in your context?

Length

Preacher's Magazine is an online resource, so space is not that much of a concern. However, writers are encouraged to keep in mind pastors' limited time. We recommend sermons of less than 2000 words and articles around 600 words.

Languages

You are encouraged to submit your sermon, article or podcast in the language or languages of your choice. If possible, please also submit your written documents in English. Our hope is to create a multi-lingual resource that encourages cross-regional conversations.
